Martellotto

For generations, our family in Alberobello, Italy has fermented grapes from vineyards that surround our traditional, limestone homes, called trulli. Nonno brought this skill to America and continued the winemaking custom from his New York basement. Today, our desire to share la buona tavola with family and friends extends to you through our artisanal wines. With one foot in the old world and one foot in the new world, Martellotto wines seek to offer authentic fruit expression through a balanced approach, moderate alcohol and extract, and a measured amount of oak. Alla Salute!

Walnut City WineWorks

Walnut City WineWorks winemakers understand and appreciate the allure, nuances and vitality of Pinot Noir. From their down-to-earth working winery they produce high-quality wines from grapes planted and nurtured in North America's premier Pinot Noir appellation, the Willamette Valley in Oregon. The principals have over two decades of experience in Willamette Valley viticulture and winemaking—through a grapevine nursery, vineyard management of more than 200 acres, growing fruit, and producing world-class Pinot Noir wines. Through practiced and meticulous stewardship in the vineyard, careful attention to yield, and minimalist winemaking practices, they achieve complex, fruit-driven wines with complementary oak profiles. The signature vineyard sits above an abandoned rock quarry ("la cantera") in Oregon's Chehalem Mountains. www.walnutcitywineworks.com
